Hot Springs, Ark. – Rogers Water Utilities employees Carolyn Roth and Johnny Lunsford were recipients of awards from the Arkansas Water Works & Environmental Association (AWW&WEA) at its annual conference in Hot Springs on May 1st.

Roth, Environmental Services Coordinator for Rogers Water Utilities, was presented with Arkansas Water Environment Association Laboratory Analyst Award. Roth was recognized with the award for her successful efforts to create a safer workplace by improving laboratory methods. She is credited with being a caring leader who strives to create a better working environment. She is an active member of the Water Environment Federation and the Arkansas Water Environment Association.

Lunsford, construction and maintenance supervisor for Rogers Water Utilities, was presented with the Arkansas Water Environment Association Collection System Award for outstanding contributions to the field of wastewater collection systems. This award recognizes his active and continuous development of the Arkansas Voluntary Collection Systems Certification Program; and for his active participation with the Arkansas Collection Systems Certification Committee for which he has served as both vice-chair, 2015-16 and currently chairs. The award was created to acknowledge individuals who have dedicated their careers to the wastewater collection field and have made outstanding contributions in the area of wastewater collection systems.
